Family of five sleep in a van

Lexi (2) are staying with their parents in Mr Kent's van.

Because both Mr and Mrs Kent work, they do not qualify for legal aid and cannot afford to get help from a solicitor.

The family home in The Fortunes was repossessed in February after they fell behind with the mortgage payments, but the family moved into temporary accommodation before the bailiffs arrived.

"We went to the council and we were given emergency accommodation," said Mrs Kent. "But they've told us now that they cannot house us anymore because we had made ourselves intentionally homeless by leaving before the bailiffs came."

"We left our house one day before the bailiffs came round to protect our children from that. We didn't know it would affect us later."

Councillor Lee Dangerfield, chairman of the council's housing policy working group, said he could not go into details about individual cases. However, he said: "This case is currently going through the statutory homeless review process which is an appeal against the council's original decision. A final decision will be made by September 15."

"We treat all cases in accordance with housing law set by Government."

Miliband in town to woo Labour faithful

HS VIDEO
For a video on this story, go to www.harlowstar.co.uk

LABOUR leadership candidate David Miliband visited Harlow on Monday to drum up grassroots support for his campaign to succeed Gordon Brown as party leader.

The Shadow Foreign Secretary, who was invited to the town by former Harlow MP Bill Rammell, met with a group of floating voters before addressing a meeting of the party faithful at Moot Hall in The Stow.

Speaking exclusively to the Star, Mr Miliband described himself as 'the grassroots candidate' and pledged to rebuild the public's trust in the party following Labour's defeat at the General Election.

"I've got more support from constituency parties than anyone else and I've had more support in public polls than anyone else, so I think I'm the candidate who has tapped into a real sense among the party grassroots that we have got to get serious," he said.

"The Government is pursuing a radical agenda and they need to be opposed, but the Labour Party needs to be an alternative government, not just a fighting opposition."

"That's why I'm here, to listen to some people who didn't support us and find out why but also to talk to party members about how we reach out and renew ourselves."

Asked how his party could reverse the sea change in Harlow voters' political allegiances that has seen the Conservatives take control of both the council and the Parliamentary constituency, he said Labour needed to deliver a clear vision of the future that residents could engage with.

"I think we've got to be on the side of people in Harlow," he added.

"We want to give them more power in their own communities over issues like crime and the public services and we've got to stand up for a wealth-creating base that goes beyond the City of London and actually includes places like Harlow so we're creating wealth here and not just distributing it."

"We've also got to be the people who stand up against inequality of life chances because there are people in schools in Harlow with real talent and we need to make sure we tap that talent."

PAH already compliant over single-sex wards

PRINCESS Alexandra Hospital in Harlow is already compliant with single-sex ward requirements set out by the Government this week.

Health minister Andrew Lansley told hospital trusts that mixed-sex wards must be phased out by the end of the year.

But PAH declared itself in line with the commitment to providing separate sleeping, washing and toilet facilities for men and women last November.

Four departments at the hospital – the Alexandra Day Unit, Emergency Assessment Unit, Same Day Admission Unit and Henry Moore Unit – had building works last year to enable the move.

The trust is currently conducting a review as to whether the EAU and radiology department can be further improved with cash from the 2010-11 budget.

The hospital states that medical staff can decide whether a patient's clinical requirements takes priority over accommodation need. However, the patient will be moved back to same-sex quarters as soon as possible.

A PAH spokeswoman said: "We are currently declaring compliance with the Care Quality Commission's requirements."

Football club nets £400 for hospice

By DAN PHILLIPS
daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk

FRIENDS and families involved with a youth football club in Harlow have raised funds for St Clare Hospice.

A seven-a-side tournament was organised by Summer's Youth FC and raised £400 for the hospice, which provides care and support to people in West Essex and East Herts with life threatening and terminal illnesses.

Last year Carina Mason, the mother of club member Jordan, died of cancer at the age of 29 and the tournament was held as a fundraising event in her honour. Mark Johnston, a volunteer manager at the club, said: "Carina continued to watch the boys play football despite her obvious pain. She was an inspiration to the rest of the parents and the boys in the team.

"The hospice was there to offer care and support to Carina and her family in their time of need. Her husband and son and the club wanted to say thank you for the care and support at what was a very distressing time."

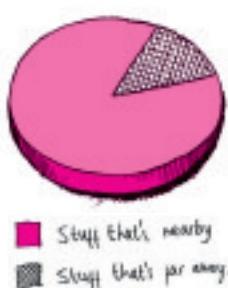

The result was what will become an annual charity tournament in her memory. The inaugural competition was organised in just two weeks with five teams, made up from the parents of boys from the various age groups at the club competing for a trophy.

"We marked out two pitches, arranged for an ice cream van and two volunteer referees," said Mark.

MEMBERS of the Harlow Jewish Community celebrated 200 years of Reform Judaism, the movement to which the group is affiliated.

They held a service at the town's synagogue in Miles Close during which the oldest participant, Alf Brill (92), spoke about how life used to be nearly 100 years ago and 10-year-old Austin Jacobs-Roth told how much she enjoyed attending the synagogue's Sunday school and explained some of the activities they did there.

Youngsters also showed off a poster they had made illustrating the history of the reforming movement. Rabbi Iri Shillor said: "It was a lovely occasion, an opportunity to hear different stories from people of all ages and experiences."

Fire service to host Rainbow Day in Harlow

A RAINBOW Day will be held at Harlow Fire Station next Saturday (August 28) to help strengthen links with the gay and lesbian community.

White Watch crews will host the event at the station in Fourth Avenue from 10am-4pm at the Fourth Avenue fire station. They will be joined by representatives from West Essex PCT, Essex Police and Harlow Council.

People from various lesbian, bisexual, gay and transgender support networks will also be there and all will be offering help and advice to visitors.

Leading firefighter James Taylor, from Essex County Fire and Rescue Service, said: "Rainbow Day has been created to give the people from the lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender community a chance to find out more about the fire service and partner agencies and the work we are doing to help make them safer.

"Statistics show that some members of the gay community are at greater risk from fire in their homes and we as a fire service want to make sure that they are getting the best and most appropriate help and advice.

"We work to make all communities in Essex safer. As a service we have not traditionally engaged with the LBGT community and we hope that we can change that by having special open days like this one.

"We hope to see as many people as possible on the day."

Rainbow Day will include The East of England Ambulance Service HART Team, Essex Police Hate Crimes Unit, Action for Men, the Museum of Harlow and a Stonewall advice exhibition.

Private consultation rooms will be available for visitors to access information from any of the organisations attending on the day.

Union survey of HPA staff shows most oppose a move to Harlow

A POLL of staff working at the Health Protection Agency in Porton Down has revealed that an overwhelming majority oppose plans to move the centre to Harlow.

The Department of Health is currently weighing up proposals to transfer the HPA research labs to GlaxoSmithKline's New Frontiers Science Park site at Pinnacles.

Trade union Unite, which has already voiced its fears over the move on safety grounds, questioned 600 workers at the Centre for Emergency Preparedness and Response, which carries out work on deadly diseases and counter bio-terrorism.

And according to the result, 85 per cent of staff said they had not been adequately consulted about a move to Harlow, while a majority said the move was not in the best interests of the HPA.

Three-quarters said they could not afford to move to Essex, while 86 per cent expressed serious concerns for their future employment with the agency in any capacity or location.

Unite regional officer Dorothy Fogg said: "Turnout for this survey was incredible given the fact that it was done during the holiday period and just goes to show the strength of feeling the staff at this proposed move."

"Staff don't want this move and have demonstrated this with an overwhelming 'No vote' in our survey."

Fee row spells end of farmers' market

By CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

FURIOUS market traders have accused Harlow Council of driving them out of town by slapping huge licence fees on their stalls.

Stallholders at the monthly Harlow Farmers' Market were stunned when they were asked to cough up £285 for the right to trade in The Water Gardens, even though the shopping area is privately owned.

But under optional new legislation recently adopted by the council the authority can charge traders an annual lump sum if they set up stall on a public right of way – and have now told traders to pay up or leave.

Ian Chisholm, managing director of Essex Farmers' Markets, told the Star they were shocked by the council's demands and had no choice but to pull out of the town.

"This money-grabbing council have destroyed what was a hugely popular monthly market with their greedy demands," he fumed.

"None of the other councils we deal with in Essex have used these new powers, which authorities don't have to adopt, against us.

"Like most businesses, our traders have had a tough time financially of late but the council clearly doesn't care about heaping more misery upon them."

The farmers' market has had a tumultuous relationship with Harlow Council ever since it was first held in Market Square four years ago.

Following disagreements with council officers over the positioning of stalls, traders moved to Old Harlow where they struggled to attract enough shoppers before switching to The Water Gardens five months ago.

Since the move, both stallholders and shops have benefited from increased customer footfall. Water Gardens manager Beryl Murphy said it was a real shame the market would be pulling out.

"It has undoubtedly been beneficial for the whole area and we've had positive feedback from customers and shops," she said. "We wanted to offer our customers something different and the response was fantastic. It's a real shame the market won't be coming back."

Tony Hall, chairman of Harlow Council's environment policy working group, said it was only allowed to charge fees that reflected its costs in relation to the administration, issue and enforcement of the licenses.

"We are currently looking at the possibility of other options for the farmers' market," he said. "It is not true to say that the farmers' market was forced out of the Market Square and we would like to talk to them about returning to the square should they choose to leave the Water Gardens."

Veterans pay tribute at service to mark 65th anniversary of VJ Day

SECOND World War veterans were joined by local councillors at a memorial service held in Harlow to mark the 65th anniversary of VJ (Victory over Japan) Day.

Rev Albert Watson led the tributes to those who suffered the hardship and horror of the Japanese prison camps and spoke of the incredible comradeship between those held captive.

Poppy wreaths were laid at the Far East Prisoners of War memorial in the Town Park by Harlow Council chairwoman Sue Livings and FEPOW member Shirley Gray.

The commemoration, which took place on Thursday, was held a few days early this year to allow veterans to attend the special national Service of Remembrance at London's Cenotaph on Sunday.

Shirley Simpkin, secretary of the Harlow branch of FEPOW, said: "We Shall Remember Them. These words are few but mean so much."

"The service reminded us that in those days nobody recognised post-traumatic distress. When these men came back from the war in the terrible condition they were in, many just had to get on with it and make the best of what they could."

"The biggest sadness is that men and women are still dying in much the same situation as our forebears did."

Police teams raid 18 homes in crackdown on burglary

POLICE in Harlow made 12 arrests during early morning raids on suspected burglars.

About 70 officers were involved in the crackdown during which a quantity of stolen property and drugs were seized.

Addresses in The High, The Hides, Pittmansfield, Whitewaits, Watlington Road, Churchfields, Glebelands, Gibb Croft, The Briars and Bury Road were raided.

Twelve men aged 16-47 were arrested on suspicion of offences including burglary, theft, handling stolen goods and drugs offences. A further three arrests have been made since the raids on Thursday and more are expected.

Chief Superintendent Simon Williams said: "Burglary is one of our most serious crimes and bringing those that commit it to justice is a priority. We want to create a hostile environment for criminals where they are the ones looking over their shoulders."

The operation took months of planning and involved plain clothes officers buying suspected stolen goods to catch crooks red-handed.

"We have focused on burglary because of its importance to victims of crime, their families and the community," said Mr Williams. "We understand the effect of the theft of personal property and of a stranger forcing entry into your house."

Of the 12 people arrested in the raids, eight were freed on bail pending further enquiries, one was cautioned and another released without charge. A 17-year-old appeared in court on Friday charged with five burglaries, theft of a motor vehicle and attempted theft. The case was adjourned.

Housing chief denies jumping waiting list

THE chairman of Harlow Council's housing policy working group has denied accusations he used his position to secure a new council house for his family.

Conservative councillor Lee Dangerfield is swapping his three-bedroom home in Berecroft – owned by South Anglia Housing – for a council-owned property in Park Mead with larger bedrooms.

The Star received more than 20 calls and letters from angry tenants living in the Park Mead area who believe Cllr Dangerfield has used his influence to jump to the top of the council's housing waiting list.

It is an accusation the father-of-three flatly refutes.

"The suggestion that I would use my influence on the council to bump myself up the housing waiting list is completely untrue," he told the Star this week.

"I have been on the waiting list for a new council home for around five years now. I can understand why some people might ask questions but everything has been done by the book."

"My youngest daughter has not had use of a bed for two years as there isn't enough room in our current home. We desperately need more space and that's why my application has eventually been accepted."

Some of the callers to the Star said they had seen workmen from council maintenance contractors Kier Harlow fitting a new kitchen, clearing the garden and installing a new central heating system.

But Mr Dangerfield said all the work carried out had been "essential" and in accordance with the council's housing policy.

"It's true that I've had a new kitchen fitted and central heating installed, but both had been condemned and needed replacing before we move in," he said.

"As for the garden, there was broken glass two inches deep scattered everywhere that needed clearing for health and safety reasons."

He added: "I'm not being treated any differently to any other council tenant with urgent repair needs. There's still a hole in the roof that needs fixing but I will have to wait for that to be done like anyone else."

"As a councillor I am used to putting my constituents' needs ahead of my own, but when it comes to my family's wellbeing I have to put them first."

Roads closed during tower block drama

POLICE closed off part of Fourth Avenue on Friday evening after a man climbed up the side of Joseph Rank House in Kitson Way.

Officers were called to the scene at 7.15pm following reports that a man had been seen at a "high level" of the tower block, which is currently being converted into flats.

It is believed the man used scaffolding erected for workmen to climb up the building.

Surrounding roads were cordoned off for safety reasons until the man came down at around 8.30pm.

He was detained under the Mental Health Act.

Historian Ron's call to arms

A NEW book which sheds light on the history of coats of arms on display around Harlow was launched at the town's museum on Saturday.

Armorial Bearings in Harlow, by local historian Ron Bill, examines the stories behind the heraldic displays ranging from Harlow Development Corporation to Essex County Council.

"Whilst we no longer have helmets and shields, the recognition of friends, allies and opponents is still an important factor of daily life," said Mr Bill, who is a regular contributor to the Star's Nostalgia page.

"In the recent general election if someone came to your door wearing a blue rosette you would assume they were from the Conservative Party and similarly red for Labour and yellow for the Liberal Democrats."

He added: "I would like to thank Chris Lydamore and David Devine of the Museum of Harlow for their help in the preparation and printing of the book and arranging the launch event."

Mr Bill, pictured above with Harlow Council deputy chairman Mike Garnett and Jan Hiller, is currently working on his next book which will be called A Civic History of Harlow.

ID opponents offer no practical alternatives

SIR, The respondents to my previous letter (Star, August 5) make several good arguments against One Stop's policy requiring ID for all alcohol purchases. They also rightly point out the policy is a response to conditions imposed by Harlow Council.

What is noticeably lacking from both, however, is the proposal of any viable alternative or solution.

Chris Page's solution is for Harlow Council to order the shop to employ staff who can tell the difference between a 17-year old and a 67-year old. Unless the council's licensing committee can employ sarcasm as a legal mechanism, it is really no solution at all.

The other suggested solution is to allow a bus pass to count as an acceptable form of ID. Whilst this may have solved Mr Page's problem, it really doesn't do a lot for the vast majority of alcohol consumers who are between the ages of 18 and 60, who also don't drive and do not wish to carry passports. Does anonymous not care about their fundamental rights?

This brings me to my final point. If purchasing alcohol without the requirement to show ID truly was a fundamental right, then shouldn't everyone over the age of 18 be just as entitled not to be burdened by such a requirement? Could any responsible policy of alcohol sales be framed around such a lofty principle? This, of course, is where the argument about rights breaks down and it is partly for this reason that One Stop is left in the unenviable position of demanding ID from every customer.

I, too, have been inconvenienced by the policy of One Stop to refuse sale of alcohol without ID. The policy is far from ideal and has been forced on the shop as a condition of licence. However, as a measure to tackle underage drinking it at least has the merit of being practical and consistent. Alternatives proposed to date do not.

Can MP justify his support for hunting?

SIR, Are readers aware that, in stark contrast to his predecessor, our MP Robert Halfon is in favour of a repeal of the 2004 Hunting Act? This would make hare, stag and fox hunting legal again.

A multi-million pound campaign is running to repeal the act and this is supported by a number of senior politicians. The Government is allowing the House of Commons time to debate the issue once again, as if 700 hours of Parliamentary time wasn't enough last time around!

As there is likely to be a free vote on the repeal, Mr Halfon does not need to toe the Conservative Party line and I am, therefore, challenging him to justify his support for a return to legalised ritualistic abuse of wildlife in the name of fun.

I would also suggest that this would be a good time for constituents to remind Mr Halfon and elected representatives up and down the country that almost nine in ten of the public support the ban.

Common sense, not gaffes and howlers

SIR, As Christmas approaches the average family will await with some trepidation the effect Government cuts will have on their lives.

Deborah Mitchell

I was stranded at the bottom of rail station staircase

SIR, After having been away for a few days travelling by train, we arrived back at Harlow Town station at 11pm on Saturday night complete with family, luggage and myself in my wheelchair, which I have to use for long journeys.

Imagine our dismay, not to say amazement, when the first problem we encountered was that the lift of our newly refurbished and much trumpeted station was out of service. No problem, we thought; we'll ask a member of staff as there must be alternative arrangements.

An extensive search of the station by our son established that there was no member of staff. Well, at the very least there will be a notice with an emergency telephone number, but no there wasn't.

The only consolation will be that historians will probably state that it was all unnecessary, as the economy is already showing the signs of improvement that Alastair Darling predicted it would, backed by the improved trade figures in the first quarter of this year.

Nevertheless, this is the way that the coalition wants to go, resulting already in increased unemployment, without any signs at all that the private sector will bridge the employment gap by taking on public sector employees.

We have also had all the gaffes over school rebuilding, Pakistan and Gaza but perhaps potentially the biggest one of all is yet to hit us – the removal of lifetime tenancies for residents in public housing. Has David Cameron really thought this one out? I doubt it.

What incentive will there be for people to go out and work for longer hours or seek promotion if it pushes them over the income threshold that will terminate their tenancy? What if that happens and they have to potentially purchase a house or pay larger rent and cannot afford the financial difference with the only possible solution that they have to move from the area?

Locally we have seen the Conservative-run council underspend by some £1.5m after preaching the need for austerity when it wasn't necessary. As a result, many organisations working to support Harlow residents are suffering.

How many more howlers do we have to see before the social infrastructure of this country starts to crumble? At the last moment Mr Cameron realised the value of free milk for children in our nursery schools, so

So there we are, at the bottom of a staircase with absolutely no help from the rail authorities. Fortunately, with the help of a fellow passenger, my husband and son, I finally managed to make it but what would have happened if I had not been able to get out of my wheelchair? A call to the fire brigade?

It is only two weeks since the grand re-opening of the station but it is obvious that the culture has not been refurbished – total disregard or care for the travelling public. If this situation can happen after such a short time, what is it going to be like in six months or a year?

Someone should be hanging their heads in shame but I won't be holding my breath!!

Slow progress

SIR, I recently passed through the A414 roadworks and was surprised how slow the work was progressing. I then drove along the M25 through the widening section towards the Queen Elizabeth II bridge at Dartford. The current section is 6.5 miles and due for completion in one year and the section to the bridge another seven miles due by 2012. Six-and-a-half miles of M25 in one year but a section of the A414 barely a mile long is scheduled to take 15 months. There's something wrong somewhere.

Ward wonders

SIR, I recently spent a week in Penn Ward at Princess Alexandra Hospital after breaking my leg and was extremely surprised at, and thankful for, the professionalism of all staff. Although extremely busy, they made time to ensure all patients were OK and talk over any difficulties or problems that they were facing.

We have all heard negative reports about our hospital but I would like to say to the powers-that-be to spend some time on this ward and you will be getting the five stars that everyone seems to be looking for.

What an amazing feat of endurance

A FORMER soldier has become the first man to walk the entire length of the Amazon river.

Ed Stafford, pictured above and right, followed the course of the 4,200-mile river – one of the longest in the world – from its source high up in the mountains of Peru, through Colombia and Brazil before finishing on the shores of the Atlantic Ocean. On his way, the 34-year-old ex-Army captain encountered deadly piranha fish, dodged venomous vipers, 18ft crocodiles and electric eels, and was stung hundreds of times by wasps and bitten by mosquitoes. He lived off fish he caught himself, rice, beans and any provisions he was able to buy from village communities along the banks of the river.

At times he was hardly able to sleep at night because he was so hungry and he told reporters he couldn't stop thinking about flapjacks!

At one point in his journey he was even captured by an Indian river tribe and wrongly accused of murder before managing to clear his name and continue his trek.

The intrepid 33-year-old adventurer raised thousands of pounds for charity and now hopes his incredible 859-day adventure will raise awareness of the destruction of the Amazon rainforest.

FAMILIES looking for a spot of open-air fun for free can take part in a range of wildlife-themed activities at a special event in Harlow tomorrow (Friday).

Visitors to Maymead Marsh, opposite The Moorhen pub in Burnt Mill Lane, can watch a spectacular display of birds of prey, take a leisurely boat trip on the River Stort, enjoy a guided nature walk and even tuck into a tasty barbecue.

Children can let their imaginations run wild with animal face-painting and learn how to make homes for their favourite creepy-crawlies, while arts and crafts stalls will be selling a variety of locally-produced goods.

A spokeswoman from event organisers Herts and Middlesex Wildlife Trust said: "The day on the marshes is a great opportunity to see wildlife."

More tales of musical youth

By DAN PHILLIPS

daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A PICTURE of pupils playing in the orchestra at Broadfields Junior School has brought memories flooding back for one Star reader.

Chris Hayward, of Whitewatts, got in touch after we featured this photograph of young musicians at the school.

The picture was supplied by Norah Handscombe, who told us the orchestra had flourished under the leadership of music teacher Peter Miller.

Ms Hayward adds: "After reading Norah Handscombe's account of the Broadfields Junior Orchestra, I felt I must also mention the brass section who all went on to the Nettewell Youth Band.

"Peter Miller also encouraged this and both my daughters played cornet well into their teens and travelled the world with the band.

"There are at least four members of the Broadfield Brass who still play in the Harlow Town Band. My daughter Melanie is one of those. "She also guest plays with the Epping Forest Brass Band and has never regretted her musical start at Broadfields."

The Nettewell Youth Band was formed in 1967. In those early days instruments had to be begged or borrowed from a number of different sources, according to a pamphlet celebrating its 18th birthday in 1985.

Later, new instruments were provided by Harlow Council and membership rose to about 45, although the personnel changed many times as members left to pursue further education or careers. The band toured abroad many times, made recording, appeared on television and played at Westminster Abbey.

By 1985 the band was under the leadership of musical director Bram Taylor and his assistant David Dennis and the band practiced together for 160 hours a year.

If you have memories of Harlow bands that you would like to share with our readers, write to Nostalgia, Harlow Star, 6 West Gate, Harlow, CM20 1JW or email daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk.

NOSTALGIA UPDATE: Harlow Carnival

THEY say all roads lead to Rome but these centurions are on their way from Bush Fair to the Town Park showground.

They were, of course, in fancy dress and taking part in the carnival that once graced the town.

This particular float was run by the Airedale factory, then in Edinburgh Way, and had a theme of a Roman Holiday.

The photograph, taken in the early 1960s, was sent in by reader Carol Defriend, of Berecroft, in response to our recent coverage of the estate's annual party.

Carol, whose maiden name is Stearn, is pictured on the horse on the left, while her friend Wendy Sparrow (nee Kidby) is astride the other beast.

"Wendy and I were dressed as Roman ladies but we weren't meant to be on the horses as the centurions were riding them," she said. "But we were about half way to the park and we asked if we could have a go and they said yes."

Carol cannot remember the exact year the picture was taken but if you can then write to Nostalgia, Harlow Star, 6 West Gate, Harlow, CM20 1JW or email daniel.phillips@hertsessexnews.co.uk.

Police accused

In a letter to police, the Harlow Constituency Labour Party has accused officers of protecting members of the National Front during a march in the town while treating protesting local residents as enemies of law and order.

Rain hits crops

Harlow farmers have been frantically harvesting their rain-damaged crops. Downpours flattened the crops and the continued bad weather is causing rotting and sprouting before harvesting can be completed.

Cossor cuts?

Increased competition could mean cost cutting, including manpower, at Cossor Electronics. A spokesman said: "Our trading position for next year has deteriorated somewhat and we are looking at the implications now."

Disney delight

People have been flocking to the Harlow Odeon over the past two weeks to see the latest Disney film, Return to Oz. Queues of excited youngsters stretched from the cinema, past neighbouring shops and down West Gate.

Fun reigns in town centre

RAIN couldn't stop play as hundreds of people braved unseasonal downpours and headed for a fun day held in Harlow town centre on Saturday.

It was the fourth year the Water Gardens has arranged activities for families and those who turned up were determined that the wet weather would not spoil their enjoyment of the entertainment on offer.

The attractions included a bouncy castle, donkey rides, a Punch & Judy show, live music from the Harlow Steelband and a thrilling birds of prey display and animal show.

Scores of youngsters also took part in a Find The Lamb treasure hunt, with one lucky winner scooping £75 worth of vouchers to spend in The Entertainer toy shop.

Water Gardens manager Beryl Murphy said: "We received really positive feedback from both shops and customers about the fun day, which is our way of saying thanks to shoppers and giving something back to the community each year."

"Usually August is a relatively quiet month as many jet off for sunnier climes, but we were overwhelmed by the fantastic response we had from residents. Even the rain couldn't stop people from enjoying the fun activities on offer."

Don't fall foul of 'tax rebate' con

By CHRIS MOSS

chris.moss@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TAXPAYERS living in Essex are being targeted by thieves operating a new telephone tax rebate scam.

The fraudsters have been contacting private households across the county claiming the occupants are due to receive a tax rebate and asking for bank details over the telephone.

They are then using the information to withdraw cash from their victim's bank accounts.

In some cases the personal details of people who have fallen for the scam have been sold on to other organised criminal gangs.

There has also been an increase in the number of scam emails reported to tax officials, with over 180 fake websites responsible being shut down in the past three months.

Chris Hopson, director of customer contact at Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs, said: "We only ever contact customers who are due a tax refund in writing by post."

"We never use telephone calls, emails or external companies in these circumstances and we strongly urge anyone receiving such a phone call not to give any information to the caller, but report it to the police straight away."

If customers receive an email claiming to be from HMRC, we recommend they send it to us for investigation before deleting it permanently."

Any suspicious emails can be forwarded to phishing@hmrc.gsi.gov.uk. For more advice on how to protect your personal details online, log on to www.getsafeonline.co.uk.

WORK MATES:

Pupils experience world of work

PUPILS were given an insight into the world of work when they participated in a confidence-boosting work experience scheme run by Harlow Council's maintenance contractors Kier Harlow.

The Kier Insight Programme gave the five youngsters from Stewards School the chance to experience first hand the day-to-day workings of the firm, which is responsible for, among other things, housing repairs, grounds maintenance and pest control for the council. The week-long placement included a recruitment process where the five were given a mock job interview. They were also briefed on Kier's work in the community as well as receiving careers advice from members of the senior management team. Jacky Hampstead, of Stewards School, said: "The students learned valuable life skills rather than simply participating. Overall this proved to be an excellent opportunity; I wish our students could have the chance to participate in a similar scheme every year." Kier, which teamed up with the Harlow Education and Employer Partnership (HEEP) to launch the scheme, hopes to repeat the initiative next year.

Launch Pad could turn your business dream into reality

LAUNCH Pad is a competition which gives budding entrepreneurs living in and around Harlow the chance to make their business dreams come true.

In the three months since it was unveiled it has generated applications from people of all ages and backgrounds.

And the good news for those who may have missed the launch or been in two minds about whether or not to enter is that there is still time.

Launch Pad is one of the most exciting and imaginative schemes to have hit the town, with the sole purpose of fulfilling someone's ambition of starting their own business by giving them that first step up the ladder.

The lucky winner will receive dedicated mentoring, advice and guidance from each of the expert judges.

It is open to anyone over the age of 16 and living in Harlow or the surrounding district (including Epping, North Weald, Sawbridgeworth, Bishop's Stortford and Stansted) who has a business idea they believe could be the next best thing.

All applicants will be reviewed and a shortlist drawn up. The candidates will then be invited to pitch their concepts to an expert panel of local businessmen to support them in successfully launching their business idea.

The presentations will be filmed and uploaded to the Launch Pad website, at which point members of the public will have a chance to vote for their favourites.

The candidates with the greatest number of votes will win a place in the final and a second chance to present their ideas to the panel of judges, who will then decide which of the ideas they believe will be the next big thing.

One of the organisers of Launch Pad is Bryan Hunt of property services company Clarke Hillyer, who said this week: "The response so far has been fantastic but we feel there are more budding entrepreneurs out there with great ideas but who maybe a little shy or intimidated to come forward."

"This is a great shame. The panel of experts to whom they will present their ideas are a very friendly group of highly successful people and are there to help and support our budding entrepreneurs, not scare them away!"

He added: "The competition will be closing in mid September so now is the time to put pen to paper or, in this case, fingers to keyboard by logging on to www.launchpad-harlow.org and registering your idea. Who knows, you could be the next big thing."

The ideas that have already been submitted are all varied in their nature, making this an interesting competition.

"The list is endless as the next big thing could be a charity event to raise money, a new gadget that people can't live without, a new child's toy that will be a sellout at Christmas or a new style of restaurant to fill a gap in the town," said Bryan.

"We have had a good response rate since we launched but there is still time for you to submit your idea. Don't be shy; what have you got to lose?"

To find out more about the competition and the judges, to download an application form and to read the full terms and conditions, log on to the website at www.launchpad-harlow.org.

Intruders steal cash and gems

POLICE are appealing for witnesses to a burglary in The Hides, Harlow, at the weekend.

The crime occurred in the early hours of Saturday when intruders gained entry to the property via a rear door.

They stole cash, jewellery and electronic equipment and also took a bag containing various personal documents.

A police spokeswoman reminded householders to ensure they locked their doors and windows overnight. "Always remove keys from inside locks and place in a safe place where other members of the household can find in case of an emergency," she said.

Anyone with any information about the burglary should contact detectives at Harlow police station on 0300 333 4444.

Boy (15) in court on rape charge

A 15-YEAR-old boy from Harlow has appeared at Chelmsford Crown Court charged with raping a 14-year-old girl.

The teenager, who faces a possible trial in January next year, was remanded in custody until October 4 for his plea to be entered.

He is accused of committing the offence on May 11 this year in Harlow.

For legal reasons the boy cannot be identified.

Diversity is key factor in festival's popularity

STUDYING the line-up for this year's Standon Calling festival – with a salsa band par excellence, top French DJ and an electro-punk band topping the bill – it's hard to think where you might find a more eclectic combination of acts.

The presence of Orquesta Buena Vista Social Club, Etienne de Crecy and Liars on the same bill was a big statement that here lies something for everyone.

Now in its tenth year, the boutique festival started as a private birthday party for founder Alex Trenchard, whose parents own the festival's imposing setting of Standon Lordship just over the Herts/Essex border.

It has grown into a small but perfectly formed festival that this year pulled in a crowd of over 4,000 – its biggest ever.

Friday's headline act, New York trio Liars, drifted chaotically between ephemeral dance-like textures and early Therapy.

By DAN PHILLIPS

daniel.phillips@hertssexnews.co.uk

The charismatic swagger of frontman Angus Andrew was an entertaining sight and they put me firmly in festival mood. Moving from the sublime to the bizarre, can you imagine a bassist playing an instrument made from a chamber pot and played with an electric drill? No? Well that's what Finnish trio Cleaning Women did, proving a bonkers addition to an already diverse line-up.

Saturday afternoon at Standon is fancy dress time and this year's theme was Murder on the Standon Express, with attempts to follow the dress code ranging from brilliantly imaginative to hilariously wide of the mark.

A replica Baker Street, Sweeney Todd's Barber shop (selling some very special pies) and other sideshows including a burlesque performance added to the themed fun.

As the light faded and the mist gathered on Saturday evening, Norwegian electro-pop collective Casiokids threw themselves into the most stirring performance of the weekend.

Percussion seems to be the buzzword in musical circles these days but few bands seem to get it right. These Scandinavians tapped and tickled with aplomb and it was one of Standon's major coups this year to secure their only UK festival performance.

They temporarily kept me away from the Magic Numbers who were playing to a packed Crooked House tent, a cracking set from the 30 minutes I heard.

On Sunday my loyalties were divided between Spanish dance band Delorean's delayed set in the Twisted Licks tent and son and salsa sensations Orquesta Buena Vista Social Club on the main stage.

But the Cubans didn't disappoint, offering a refreshing change of pace for a truly sizzling summer festival.

Creative play sessions fuel the imagination

TOTS and toddlers celebrated their right to play at a fun-packed theatre workshop held at Harlow Playhouse.

Local children's performing arts group Pyjama Drama hosted a free session packed full of creative activities for children aged between two and five to mark National Playday.

The annual event is now in its 23rd year and seeks to highlight the importance of play in children's lives.

Youngsters attending the free workshop were taught basic acting skills, sang some of their favourite songs, strutted their stuff on the dancefloor and embarked on a magical rainbow-themed adventure treasure hunt.

Organiser Pauline Gill said: "We believe that creative play should be central to the daily lives of children so for us, Pyjama Drama and National Playday go hand in hand."

"The children had lots of fun

as they used their imagination to journey through a muddy field, climb a mountain, ride horses and then fly – with the help of magic flying dust – to the end of a rainbow.

"Our classes are designed for children aged between two and seven years old and are packed full of drama games and activities which help develop key social skills such as co-operation, concentration and confidence whilst igniting the imagination!"

Weekly sessions are held at The Playhouse and at St Andrew's Church in The Stow. For more information, contact Pauline on 0844 504 7827 or at pauline@pyjamadrama.com.

SALT
certificate 12A 1h40m

NAMED after the CIA operative played by Angelina Jolie, Salt is a thinly-veiled attempt at making a Bourne-esque franchise. The action opens in North Korea where Evelyn Salt (Jolie) is stripped to her underwear, bound and covered in blood. After she is released with the help of her German arachnologist boyfriend (August Diehl), the film flashes forward two years to their spider-strewn apartment on their wedding anniversary. Over at CIA headquarters in Washington, Salt is set to leave for the day when she and her boss Winter (Liev Schreiber) are called to interrogate Russian defector

Orlov (Daniel Olbrychski). He accuses Salt of being part of a cell of highly-trained Russian sleeper spies who are about to be activated in what he calls 'Day X'. Salt, he claims, will kill the Russian president during the funeral of the American vice president in New York. Salt denies Orlov's accusation before blasting her way out of the building and jumping from truck to truck in a car chase. While crowds mass round a church before the start of the funeral service, Salt evades her CIA colleagues and slips into the subway and the church vault to carry out the assassination of the Russian president. But is she really a sleeper spy? The film, which seems timely given the recent Russian spy furore in the US, was originally written for a male lead. In a nod to that, Salt disguises herself as a man at one stage to break into the White House, but the scene lacks humour. Jolie can still kick some serious butt – there's a huge body count in the film – but too often it seems she's just going through the motions and some of the high-octane moments lack spark. Chiwetel Ejiofor is on form as the counter-intelligence officer who chases Salt throughout the film and is integral to the final scene that sets up a sequel. If there are tongue-in-cheek moments they don't raise a laugh and the dull colour palette does nothing to lift the film out of the realms of mediocrity.

Killer fish with a taste for flesh

certificate 18 1h28m

HAVING already remade The Hills Have Eyes, director Alexandre Aja now turns his attention to a modern revision of a cult B-movie. Lake Victoria is a tranquil beauty spot until the spring break when the population of 5,000 increases tenfold with the arrival of funseekers and tourists keen to cool off in the waters. However, the holiday makers get a lot more than they bargained for when an underwater tremor unleashes a school of prehistoric, man-eating fish. As the voracious creatures attack people in the water without mercy, a small group of survivors band together to outwit the predators.

Chevrolet's capital Captiva

By STEVE WALKER

ICONIC status is a tough thing to lay claim to when you're part of a comparatively recent and somewhat oversubscribed trend. Almost every self-respecting mainstream car manufacturer has a compact SUV to peddle these days. Chevrolet's is called the Captiva and while iconic would be stretching things, you could argue for its Ikonic status – in special edition Captiva Ikon guise that is.

There certainly seems to be an iron belief within the car industry that we want to buy compact SUVs. Otherwise, why so many of them?

The Captiva is quite a handsome thing, displaying all the usual 4x4 design elements. In Ikon form, Chevrolet has shovelled on a range of additional styling accessories while keeping the price manageable.

The engine range kicks off in unspectacular style with a rather aged 2.4-litre petrol engine then perks up considerably with the 2.0-litre VCDi diesel.

The petrol option has 133bhp and will detain you for 11.5s while it zips up to 60mph. The diesel has 150bhp and a 10.8s 0-60mph time which is half a second quicker than a four-wheel-drive Captiva fitted with the same engine.

The car never feels particularly sharp on the road and there are more car-like alternatives for drivers interested in responsive handling to consider, but the ride is comfy. Both engines are on the noisy side if you drive them hard but the extra torque of the diesel makes a lot of difference to the driving experience.

The Captiva isn't one of these SUVs that tries to tone down its styling in a bid to look more like a conventional car and on the Ikon model the traditional 4x4 accessories get even more extrovert. The 20-inch alloy wheels are the real showstoppers, they look quite a size shod with their low profile tyres, even when encased by the Captiva's cavernous wheelarches.

The Ikon is more for looking good around town than showing its prowess out in the wilds. There's even darkened privacy glass to deflect some of the attention the car's clearly designed to get.

The design is clever in reducing the perceived bulk of what is a surprisingly spacious vehicle. Viewed in isolation, the Captiva looks to be about the size of a Toyota RAV4 or a Suzuki Grand Vitara but the tale of the tape shows that it's a much heftier piece of metalwork. For a start, it's fully 4,639mm long, compared with the 4,415 of the Toyota and the 4,470mm of the Suzuki.

That's why the Chevy has room for three rows of seats in some versions. The Ikon model only comes in five seater form but you do get a prodigious boot where those two rear seats would otherwise have been. Based on the entry-level LS model from the standard Captiva range, the Ikon benefits from features such as air-conditioning, electric windows, remote central locking, electric door mirrors and a CD stereo with controls on the steering wheel. Even with the extra styling accessories valued at £3,000, it's still £1,000 cheaper than an LS in petrol form and over £1,400 less as a diesel.

In terms of fuel economy, Captiva buyers will get 31mpg from the petrol model or 37mpg from the diesel.

The Captiva's strengths are its interior space and handsome looks. It's not one of the better compact 4x4s to drive and the petrol engine in particular lets the side down with its economy and emissions.

In Ikon form with front wheel-drive and the five-seat layout that yields more boot space, it looks a good value family car and it will certainly stand out from more mundane compact SUVs.

Iconic it isn't but the Captiva Ikon can still make a strong case for itself.

The small car with big ideas

If you're wondering how Citroen's DS3 fits into the grand scheme of the supermini market, just retreat about 20 paces from one and squint a bit.

Suddenly everything becomes clear: this is the French manufacturer's answer to the sales phenomenon that is the Mini.

If you can see past the DS3's detailing, its gently curving lines, snub nose and that floating roof hold more than a passing resemblance to BMW's baby. Still not convinced? Well the DS3 1.6 THP model shares an engine with the Mini Cooper S.

The 1.6 THP has a lively turbocharged petrol engine that gives the Citroen warm hatchback performance. This is an outstanding engine for its size and type. The 1.6-litre capacity and multi-point fuel injection system help give rise to a 155bhp power output in the DS3 1.6 THP. That's enough to take it through 60mph from a standing start in 7.3s and on to a top speed of 133mph.

There's the feel of a sporty hatchback about the DS3 that comes from firm suspension, which may be a touch busy for some tastes, and direct steering. The chassis provides high grip levels with taut body control and the DS3 can be a hoot on twisty roads where the opportunity to make the most of that engine arises.

The gearbox is the slickest unit Citroen has come up with for a long time. Even though it's slightly notchy, there's good weight and a positive feel to the shifting action.

Although the driving position may not suit everyone with its widely spaced and slightly offset pedals, the wide scope of adjustment offered by the steering column and seat should accommodate most body shapes.

The basic shape might appear to have Mini influences but Citroen was keen to differentiate the DS3 with a forward-looking design approach and its anti-retro launch marketing campaign. From that shark fin B-pillar to the vertical strips of LED lights that flank the front grille and the distinct sill line connecting the wheelarches, the DS3 is ferociously unconventional. It has a greater capacity to turn heads than almost any other supermini. The manufacturer claims there's room for five adults in the DS3 but this is extremely optimistic. Although legroom is OK, headroom is very restrictive for anyone on the taller side and the modest width of the rear bench means only two adults can really sit comfortably. The boot is 285-litres which is large for the supermini class and 60:40 split rear seats give options for extending that capacity. The design of the cabin sets out to reflect the cutting-edge exterior and there are flashy materials in evidence throughout. The two-tone dashboard mirrors the contrasting roof and bodywork outside while the instruments are set into a trio of circular dials in a motif that appears again in the round clusters of ventilation controls on the centre console. The DS3 sets out to feel special inside and succeeds. There are areas where the quality of the materials doesn't come up to scratch and storage space is in short supply, but the Citroen consistently goes the extra mile to impress its occupants and that's likely to be appreciated. Buyers who want the 1.6 THP engine will need to get the DSport version of the DS3. That's the range-topping trim level but prices are still on the reasonable side. You get digital air-conditioning, Bluetooth connectivity, 17-inch alloy wheels, a rear spoiler and chrome for the exhaust and the side rubbing strips. Safety equipment includes ESP stability control as standard, an advanced ABS braking system and six airbags. The performance of the 1.6 THP engine elevates the DS3 to warm hatch status and there are some desirable alternatives around with similar qualities. To match the performance of the DS3, buyers would need to spend considerably more on a Mini. They'd be getting a more involving driving experience but in a less practical package. The 1.4-litre turbocharged versions of Fiat's Punto and SEAT's Ibiza that you can get for similar money are slower than this DS3 and lack the wow-factor in its interior design. Perhaps the closest rival is the Alfa Romeo MiTo which is boldly styled inside and out but down on performance and less engaging to drive.

The 1.6 THP engine turns in only 42mpg on the combined cycle but that isn't bad going when this DS3's performance is taken into account. Economy and the 155g/km CO₂ emissions are both competitive against other superminis in the same performance ball park.

The DS3 is also equipped with a gearshift indicator that prompts drivers to change gear at the opportune moment for greater efficiency. Citroen would dearly love to secure a slice of the success that BMW has enjoyed with its Mini and it thinks the DS3 is the car to do it. With a basic shape that isn't a million miles away from the Mini and a similar focus on lively dynamics, the DS3 looks well placed to poach sales at the trendy end of the supermini sector.

Citroen pulled out all the stops to make the DS3 stand out and it does. The flashy trim finishes inside and out might be a little too much for some tastes but the target market should lap it up and underneath is a very well engineered small car.

The emphasis is on sharp handling which means the ride is on the firm side but the DS3 is impressively composed on the road and handles sweetly. The high hopes Citroen has for the car and its DS sub-brand generally would appear to be justified.

Scrap

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle.
That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD).
A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

End of the road? Get over it and move on with your local ATF:

We offer free collection, on the same day if necessary, using our to their website. Payment per vehicle negotiable.

Experienced Roget named Town skipper

By DAVID RIMMER

david.rimmer@hertssexnews.co.uk

VETERAN defender Leo Roget has been given the nod as captain to lead Harlow Town forward in the 2010-11 campaign.

The 33-year-old former Southend United and Oxford United central defender was at Harlow during the 2007-08 season when the side defeated AFC Wimbledon to remain in the Ryman premier division.

Hawks boss Kevin Warren has been convinced of Roget's fitness this pre-season. The player, who runs a business in Harlow, was out of football for a year.

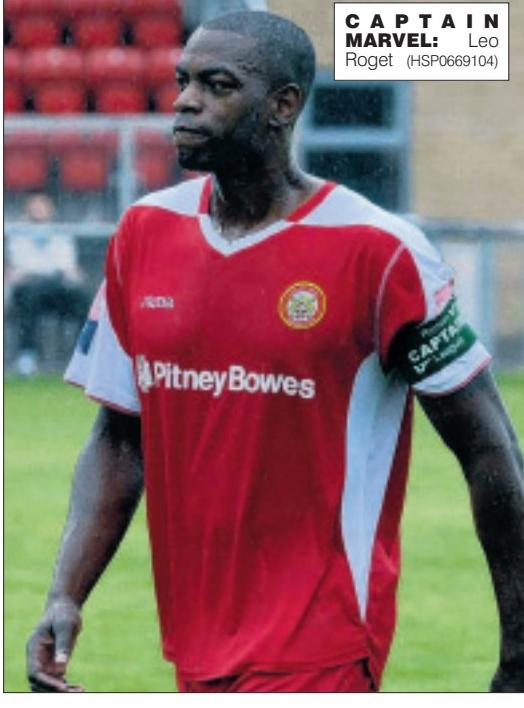

The Hawks boss believes his leadership qualities will be key if the club are to challenge for a play-off spot in division one north this term.

Warren said: "I will be handing the armband to Leo. He has shown a tremendous attitude."

"He's very good at talking to the lads and has their respect. He has been there and done it."

Warren has not yet made a decision on who will be his number one.

James Hasell, who rejoined

CAPTAIN MARVEL: Leo Roget (HSP0669104)

the club during the latter part of last season, missed the first part of the pre-season due to kidney stones.

"James is nearly back to full fitness. I have yet to make a decision. I will be looking at him, Rhys Madden and James May in training this week," said Warren.

Left winger Louis Riddle has been troubled with a sore groin and Sam Taylor has been hit by a back problem. The Hawks boss hopes the key duo will be available for selection in the league opener away to Grays Athletic this Saturday. He rates their chances as about 80 per cent.

However, 20-year-old central defender Liam Thomas who was at Harlow last season, has been released, along with right-back Dan Harvey.

Warren has Roget, Laurie Stewart and Jon Stevenson, who can all play in the heart of defence.

"I have had to release Liam. He has a tremendous attitude but I have three experienced central defenders," said Warren.

"He would have struggled to get in front of them and at his age he needs first team football."

He added: "Dan has been struggling with a groin injury. He would have struggled to keep up with the Saturday and Tuesday matches and I was not willing to change the team for that. "He needs to go away and get it sorted out."

Harlow Tn 2, Aveley 2

Friendly

STING IN THE TAYL: Harlow Town full-back Mark Taylor curls in a free-kick which went narrowly wide on Saturday at Barrows Farm (HSP0670797) on 27 minutes.

Harlow exerted more pressure before they equalised on 43 minutes. Jeff Hammond beat two players before he was fouled in the box and Sosthene Yao slotted the penalty into the bottom corner.

Harlow started the second half the stronger team as a powerful Hammond shot was saved well by the Aveley custodian.

Both sides then had chances before Holland went 2-1 up on 73 minutes.

A Hammond shot came off the inside post but Andy Porter was quickest to react and stab the ball over the line for his first goal for the Hawks.

The hosts looked like preserving the lead until the last gasp intervention from Holland. Harlow looked as though they would hold onto the lead before Holland drilled in to level.

Warren said: "Aveley have had a very good pre-season. I thought we were the better team over 90 minutes and created more chances though I was not pleased about their last minute goal."

Harlow Tn: Hasell, Taylor, Barnes, Roget, Stevenson, Stewart, Porter, Wheeler, Yao, Hammond, Akers. Subs used: Bradbury, Stadhart.

Ryman reason to make up for last season!

"We have strength in every position. We have got strength at the back and are strong in midfield."

Warren realises Grays will be favourites on Saturday but believes they could be in for a shock.

"Grays are going to be one of the four or five sides tipped to win it. The League is more physical than the Conference. Most of their players will not have played at this level," said Warren.

"If they come into the game not fully prepared they could be in for a surprise."

Grays have left their old ground after the lease expired and Saturday's game will take place at East Thurrock United FC, who are sharing their ground at Rookery Hill in Corringham with Grays this season.

Harlow's second league clash sees them play Potters Bar Town at home on Tuesday (7.45pm KO).

"This will be completely different to Saturday's game and we will be looking for a win in our first home game. They will not come and roll over. They always have a fit side," said Warren.

The hardcore followed the club though thick and thin last season and hopefully more people will come. We want to make our ground a fortress."

Chiassaro also won his 200m heat.

Much of the event was televised.

He said: "The World Record holder Micky Bushall and World Champion David Weir finished ahead of me by 0.4 [seconds] so it was close but I'm happy with it considering the line-up was top class athletes and it was only 6 weeks ago I broke my wrist."

Team on brink of promotion

HARLOW Town II are on the brink of a fourth consecutive promotion in the Herts & Essex Cricket League.

The Ash Tree Fields team are second in division three and 34 points ahead of third-placed High Beach after they received a walkover for their scheduled fixture against South Loughton II.

South Loughton were unable to raise a side.

If Town beat Woodford Wells IV at home this Saturday, they will go up.

Second team skipper Scott Alderson said: "The team have done very well. Dave Pistorius has stood out, taking 30 wickets with his spinners."

"We have two games left. We need to just go out and beat Woodford Wells this Saturday and not leave it to the last game when we play Stansted who have won the championship."

In division six, Harlow Town III's game against Stansted II was abandoned because of rain.

At the moment Town are second and need to win both their remaining matches to clinch promotion.

Any lingering hopes Harlow Town's first team had of clinching the division one championship at the first attempt ended last Saturday.

The promoted side only picked up four points from their abandoned match against South Loughton but leaders Farnham took four points from their abandoned game at Stansted Hall.

Farnham are 54 points ahead of Harlow Town and with two matches left and with 26 points for a win, Town cannot catch Farnham.

Both Potter Street teams were foiled by the weather.

Great night for Harlow anglers

FOUR members of Stort Valley Angling Society contested the annual Nocturnal Trophy night match at Rossell Pits near Ely, Cambs.

A very fine bag of mainly bream was caught by members of the Harlow-based club.

Top spot went to Steve Beehan with 78lbs 10ozs.

Steve's dad Bill, who netted 67lbs 13ozs, filled second place.

Kevin Shaw came third, weighing in 39lbs 14ozs.

Danny Cruse's 35lbs 11ozs gave him fourth.

Sunning-on-Thames was the venue for the Society's latest coach outing.

The early 4am start did not deter 18 anglers from making the trip.

First place was filled by Danny Cruse, weighing in with 16lbs 3ozs, just 7ozs ahead of Mick Westby.

Third place went to Steve Beehan who netted 13lbs 1oz.

Salisbury plain sailing for Katie

KATIE Herrington was third fastest woman runner in the Salisbury 5-4-3-2-1 Trail races.

She was one of three Harlow Running Club members competing on the very hilly and demanding course across the Wessex countryside.

Katie completed the 20km (13 miles) event and recorded a superb time of 1hr 56 minutes and 56 seconds.

She was joined by David Ayling and Steve Ambrose who both took part in the 50km (33 miles) event as preparation for their 90km (56 miles) London to Brighton Race next month. Ayling clocked a fantastic 4 hrs 51 mins 10 secs and Ambrose was not far behind in 4:58.34.

Skipper looking for Buckhurst Hill slip-up

SKIPPER Jason McNally has said his Harlow side must win all three remaining games to have a chance of promotion.

The Marigolds side are now third in division two of the Shepherd Neame Essex League after they got only six points from their abandoned home game against leaders Harold Wood last Saturday.

Harlow lie seven points behind Buckhurst Hill who went second after their seven-wicket win at Basildon & Pitsea five days ago.

Salt was rubbed into the wound as Harlow are the only side to have had two abandonments in the league while Buckhurst Hill have had none. McNally said: "We have just got to win our three remaining games to stay in contention and hope Buckhurst Hill slip up."

"Buckhurst still have to play Harold Wood and that is a limited overs game where you cannot just settle for a draw."

He added: "We have got 12 points from two abandoned games on the days Buckhurst Hill have got two wins and 38 points.

"It's frustrating but there is nothing you can do about it. The outfield was just too wet."

McNally's side visit basement team Benfleet this Saturday.

"We will be at full strength. We drew against Benfleet in the first game and want to wipe the floor with them. We are better at limited overs cricket," McNally said.

Essex FA needs refs for course

Football

EXPERIENCED referees are being sought to give their expertise to wannabe officials at a training day being run by the Essex County Football Association Development Officer Terry Thacker.

Thacker is looking for senior referees or ex-referees ranked at Level Six or above to lend a hand at a forthcoming referee assessor training day on Sunday October 3.

The event is viewed as a vitally important exercise for passing on knowledge to referee assessors.

They can then, in turn, mark the performances of their ambitious counterparts and prepare them for the next level of football.

Previous such events have proved popular and the increase in standards of officiating in the county remains a key goal for the Essex FA.

Participants will meet for an introduction to assessing at the county office in Chelmsford at 9am on October 3. Then discussions will take place on the referee's performance before completing a mock assessment. Thacker said: "It's very important that this day is supported because the FA is using more assessors at all levels of football instead of simply relying on club marks for promotion."

"The more assessors we have trained, the more officials we can arrange to be observed and hopefully we will then be in a better position to help them progress towards a higher level."

The promotion season commences on the first day of March and ends on the last day of February each year.

Officials wishing to be considered for promotion must apply to the Referees Development Officer at the county office and ask for 'Form P' between the inclusive dates of January 1 and June 1 for the following season's promotions. Applicants are then assessed on several occasions during that season.

The day will run from 9am to 5pm. If you're interested in attending, call Terry Thacker on (01245) 393086.

Osagie hoping for England OK

ACE middle-distance runner Andrew Osagie will be keeping his fingers crossed that he is selected for the England Athletics squad for the forthcoming Commonwealth Games in India.

The selection for October's event is due to be announced on Monday morning and the 22-year-old 800m runner from Northfields in Harlow has never competed at the Commonwealth Games before.

Osagie had been ruled out for more than three months with a hip injury and a bone stress fracture in his left foot but has now fully recovered.

Since coming back from this injury he has twice clocked under the UK qualifying time (1 min 47.50 sec) in late July and August for the Commonwealth Games which will take place in Delhi.

He clocked 1:47.18 and 1:47.49 in two races at the British Milers Club Gold Standard meeting in Watford, finishing second in the final.

Osagie said: "I have done the qualifying time twice. I have shown current form."

"As far as getting selected [for the Commonwealth Games] it's up to them [England Athletics]."

HOPEFUL: Andrew Osagie

He added: "I have done all I can in the time I have been back. There are other racers who have earned the right [to be selected] and have done well all season."

In his last race at Parliament Hills Field track in North West London on Saturday, Osagie was handicapped by a slow pacemaker and the wind and rain as he clocked 1:49.0.

"The pacemaker was slow in this race and I made a move 250 metres out [from the finish] and finished well," said Osagie.

Osagie is doing all he can to improve without risking further injury. "The training is going really well. I am trying to make my legs stronger," he said.

"I'm trying to improve my stamina which I normally work on in the winter. In the summer it is normally just speed work and races but I am managing to combine it.

"I have had a few injuries but the mistake would be to try and do too much."

He added: "I aim to get my time down to 1:45.6 or 1:45.7 [this year] and I'm capable of doing that in the right race."

"I'm doing in the mid 20s for miles per week and will work towards 35 and 40 miles per week."

Before his injury problems this summer, Osagie was first in the 800m at the McCain City Challenge in Sheffield in February in 1:53.18.

He clocked 1:47.40 and 1:51.29 respectively in the heats and semi-final of the 800m at the IAAF World Indoor Championships in Doha, Qatar, in March.

Athletes end season on a high

ENCOURAGING performances came from Harlow Athletic Club youth team members as they rounded off their Eastern Young Athletes League campaign.

The last meeting of the season at the Lee Valley Athletics Centre in Picketts Lock, North London, saw Harlow up against four of the strongest teams in the league. They finished sixth out of seven teams resulting in a final spot of 24th from 26 in their division.

Best scores of the day came from Isobel Moss who won the U-15 girls B-string discus with a throw of 12.12m, while Rosie Poole (U-13) secured a win in the B 800m (2 mins 48.2 secs).

In very windy conditions, Isobel was second in the A 1,500m (5:37.7).

In the U-13 girls long jump Eloise Lott came fourth in the A 100m (3.83m), while Rosie was fifth in the B (3.24m).

Non-scoring athletes Claudia Lee, Millie Smith and Sade Akinkunmi leapt 3.93m, 3.76m and 3.57m respectively.

Sade was fifth in the A 800m (2:47.8) and the A shot put (4.14m).

Millie cut her personal best (PB) by four seconds when she came 6th in the B 200m in 31.8s.

She also completed the 800m in 3:01.1 as a non-scoring athlete.

Newcomer Claudia, came 4th in the B 100m (14.4s) and 6th in the A 200m (32.6s).

Eloise Lott set two new PBs in coming 4th in the A 100m (14.4s) and 4th in the 70m hurdles (12.9s).

In the U-15 girls, middle-distance runner Marleen Avontuur was 5th in the A 200m (29.0s), 4th in the A 300m (46.4s) and 2nd in the B javelin (12.72m), achieving PBs in all three events.

Eleanor Moss set a PB of 5.68m in the A shot, came 4th in the A javelin (18.70m) and 5th in the A discus (14.22m).

Hope Hawkins also set a

PB of 14.2s in the A 100m (5th) and came 4th in the B shot put (4.96m).

Lauren Foster set a PB of 4.19m in the long jump and came 5th in the A 100m (13.7s).

In the U-13 boys, Matthew Morgan clocked 14.5s to come 6th in the A 100m and Sherman Boldizzar came 6th in the A long jump (3.66m).

Jack Reed, who is getting ever closer to a UK top 100 ranking in the U-15 boys sprints, improved his PB in the 100m by 0.5s to come 5th in the A-string event in 11.9s.

He also improved his A 200m by 0.3s to 24.4s, coming 4th.

Slav Ribstuck finished 4th in the B 100m U-15 race (12.5s) and was 4th in the javelin (27.16m).

What was encouraging for Harlow was that the club managed to field athletes in more events than on any other occasion this season.

Elsewhere, there was an outstanding run from 11-year-old Harlow-based athlete Canaan Solomon in his first 800m race on the track.

The Fawbert and Barnard pupil placed third in an impressive 2 mins 28.8, a time that placed him second in the East Region rankings for U-12s behind the outstanding 11-year-old from Southend, Laurence Winchmore.

Also in impressive form was 12-year-old Harlow AC member Matthew Morgan who again lowered his PBs to 13.27s for 100m, placing third, and 27.53s when winning his 200m race.

Jodie Ratcliff (11), a Fawbert and Barnard pupil, placed 6th in her 800m race in 2 mins 52.8.

At Ashford in a Southern Inter Counties match last Sunday, 23-year-old Kirsty McIntosh finished an excellent second place in the A string pole vault with a throw of 3.40m, helping Essex to a fourth successive overall win at this event.

Squash

HARLOW'S second team returned to winning ways with a well-earned 2-1 victory at Potters Bar in division four of the Herts Squash League. First string John Tennant struggled in his first set, losing it 5-15.

He performed better in the second but went down 10/15, before losing the third in a marathon set 18-20.

Second string Peter Izatt played in the most exciting game of the evening with the action see-sawing one way then the other.

Izatt won a close first set 15-12, but lost the second 3-15.

He recovered well to win the third 15-9 only to let his opponent back in by losing the fourth 7-15.

With all to play for in the final set Izatt showed his superiority by powering his way to a 15-10 victory and a 3-2 overall win.

Third string Richard Lewis never allowed his opponent to get in front and enjoyed a comfortable straight sets win (15-10, 15-10, 15-12) to seal the match for Harlow.

The first team were without a fixture this week.

Ryman reason!

Hawks boss aims for play-offs to make up for last season

KEVIN Warren, left, is determined that his Harlow Town side make up for the disappointing Ryman League campaign last term – with his minimum target being a promotion play-off spot this season.

one north.

This was after VCD Athletic's ground facilities were adjudged not to be up to scratch and they were relegated instead.

Warren, who was caretaker boss at the end of last term, was appointed as permanent manager in the close season.

His team kick off their campaign away to Grays Athletic this Saturday.

Grays have dropped down three divisions from the Blue Square Premier following financial problems last term.

Warren said: "I'm really looking forward to the season and hope it will be a successful one. I would look to finish at the minimum in a promotion play-off spot."

"There is no point in thinking any different. It would be a dream to win it."

He added: "We need to show the town it is a whole new set up. It's a totally different club. There have been massive changes in personnel."

Strikers Sosthene Yao (signed from AFC Hornchurch) and Jeff Hammond (from Hitchin Town) have been snapped up in the summer and look full of goals.

Warren acknowledges their capability but says there is strength across the whole side. "They [Yao and Hammond] have got plenty about them. They both have a lot of pace and can get behind defences," said the Hawks boss.

Jo's England
gunning for Commonwealth Games gold

NETBALL by ALAN SCOTT

JOANNE Harten says her England team will be gunning for gold when they take on some of the strongest netball-playing nations in the world at the Commonwealth Games in Delhi this October.

Former St Mark's School student Joanne (21) was named in the England squad last week.

There will be 12 teams competing in two pools and England have already been handed a bonus as they have avoided favourites Australia, ranked Number One in the world, in their pool.

The key to reaching the final will be by winning their big group stage match against New Zealand, ranked second in the world.

Joanne explained: "We are confident we can beat them. If we beat them, that's the key to winning the group for us."

They could then face Jamaica in the semi-final – or at least avoid Australia – and have a great chance of winning a place in the final and returning with at least a silver medal.

Joanne, who now has 12 caps, was in the successful England team that beat Jamaica in a Test series in England this year. England are ranked third in the world.

She was delighted to get the nod from the England selectors for the Commonwealth Games. "I was quietly confident. I had been training well for the last two or three years. It was always my goal to make the team," she said.

Joanne joined the England U-21 party on a trip to the Cook Islands for a tour as the national side acclimatise to the conditions in Delhi.

"We are getting used to the heat. We will have to drink a lot of water to keep hydrated.

"This team is probably the most prepared England side ever at the Commonwealth Games before. We hope to get a medal; a silver or gold medal would be amazing," said Joanne.

As goal shooter for the national side, Joanne has huge responsibility on her shoulders as she prepares for her first trip to the Commonwealth Games.

"There is pressure on the goal shooters. Everyone else does the hard work but there is pressure to finish it off."

Although Joanne was named as an 18-year-old in the England squad for the World Championships in New Zealand in 2007, she says this is her biggest competitive event to date.

"I was like Theo Walcott in 2007 [who was only 17 when he was included in England's 2006 World Cup squad]. I was just there for the experience.

"This one means a lot more to me. I have been training hard for this. I want to get a medal," said Joanne.
